First confirmed case of St. Louis Encephalitis reported

The first confirmed case of St. Louis Encephalitis this season in the county was confirmed in a 48-year-old West Palm Beach man on Nov. 25. He reportedly had multiple risk factors for SLE, including working more than 20 hours a week outdoors after dark, not using mosquito repellent, and not consistently wearing long sleeved shirts and pants when working outdoors after dark.

Douglas Wilson, a carpenter who reportedly worked outdoors in the evening, was admitted to Palms West Hospital on Oct. 26 after complaining of fever and severe headaches. He spent six days in the hospital.

forces: the hurricane.

"We have designed a trailer, just like they did in the movie Twister, where they chased tornadoes," said Cheryl O'Brien, a scientist with the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory: Westensing hurricanes so we can learn about the ground level dynamics in severe storms."

For the first time ever scientist successfully placed wind-measuring devices, called anemometers, into the path of a landfalling hurricane. As Hurricane Georges headed for the Mississippi coast in late September, Chéryl's hurricane chasers erected the special anemometers throughout the state.

"Wind instruments are critical," said Joe Golden, a senior meteorologist with the National Weather Service. "If we are very going

Meanwhile, 22,300 miles aboye the Earth, a new weather satelite is providing researchers with new understanding into how a hurricane works. The satellite, nichnamed TRIM, is a joint effort of scientists from the United States and Japan.

"We've seen hurricane clouds not like any we've seen before," said Golden.
The satellite's x-ray view of Hurricane Bonnie discovered towers of heavy rain grouped like New York City skyscrapers. Whenever a very tall skyscraper of rain formed, the hurricane suddenly, intensified.

"What this rainfall provides us is a signature of the fuel supply that drives the hurricane engine," said Golden. "It may help us predict when a storm is about to strengthen."

Forceasters at the National Hurricane Center admit that predicting intensity changes in tropical cyclones is their most difficult job. Predication of tracks and landfall locations have improved, but forceasts of hurricane strength have shown virtually no progress.

The new satellite along with information from the hurricane chasers' anenometers will improve forecasts and cold help save lives and reduce property losses in the future.

"Preventing major destruction from hurricanes will not only enable people to get back to their lives more quickly but also have an impact on bringing the economy back more quickly," said Richard Peterson, a wind researcher at Texas Tech University. Philosopher George Santayana may have put it best when he wrote, "the wisest mind has something yet to learn." That is captainly true in the world of weather.

Flu often fatal for diabetics

People with diabetes are nearly three times more likely to die from influenza (flu) and pneumonia than those without diabetes, yet typically more than half of people with diabetes do not get a flu shot. The Florida Départment of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) encourage people with diabetes to get a flu shot before this flu season. October through December are the best months to get a flu shot.

"People with diabetes may be unaware that ease makes their immune system more vulnerable to a severe case or even death from the flu," says Dr. Frank Vinicor, director of the Diabetes Translation Program at CDC. "A flu shot is an easy and safe preventive measure that people with diabetes should take to protect themselves."

"Flu shots do not contain a live virus, so they cannot cause the flu," according to Tamara Kicera of the CDc S National Immunization Program. "Getting a flu shot is essential for people with diabetes. The shot not only protects them from the flu, but it can help avoid passing the flu to loved ones. A flu shot is a good idea for everyone, but people should be sure to check with their doctor before getting way receiptain." vaccination.

Children's asthma: What parents can do

(NAPS)—You'll breathe easier, and your child will too, when you arm yourself with information about asthma from experts at the American Acade experts at the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Avoiding An Attack
Once your child has been diagnosed with asthma, there are several things you can do to help your child avoid asthma attacks. First, keep him or her away from triggers or allergens that can start an asthma away from triggers or allergens that can start an asthma attack. Common triggers include: dust mites and mold inside the house; animal dander; cigarette smoke; pollen is the biggest problem outdoors. Reducing Triggers You can reduce asthma triggers in your home:

Try to keep pets with fur or feathers out of your child's bed-room. If you have cats or dogs, shampoo and brush them

Using A Peak Flow Meter
Your child's doctor will proba-bly suggest that your child use a peak flow meter every day. It measures how well air gets out of your child's lungs. A meter also helps tell you and your doctor how serious your child's asthma attack is.

To use the peak flow meter, your child should:

1. Move the indicator to the bottom of the numbered scale.

3. Take a deep breath.
4. Close his or her lips around the mouthpiece of the flow meter. The tongue should not go inside the tube

5. Blow out as hard and fast

5. Blow out as hard and last as possible.

Committee grateful

Dear Editor:
The new pole decorations are up and glowing for the holidays. The Julian Branch Pestival of Lights Committee wants everyone to know that these decorations were purchased with donations ranging from a few dollars to thousands of dollars and each donation has been especially appreciated no matter the size. No city funds were used to purchase the new decorations. The city is donating a beautiful nativity scene and city workers are helping to install the decorations just as they do every year. Another segment of our community worthy of commendation is the Pahokee Youth Development Center. All the Christmas cutouts which will be seen around town were done by employees and center. All the Christmas cutouts which will be seen around town were done by employees and residents of the Center and they were painted in vivid Christmas colors of red, green, blue and gold, by a host of volunteers. ### Pahokee city vehicles seen out

Just a little observation and question. I happened to notice an accident that involved the city manager of Pahoke and his vehicle on Sunday. I wonder why this car would be out on a Sunday afternoon?

out on a Sunday afternoon?

I notice this car a lot of places and at different times when City Hall isn't even open.

I hope this is all legitimate city business. If not, I hope this paying the IRS for the use.

As a matter of fact, I see a lot of city wehicles in the strangest of places (shopping malls, fairgrounds, in Belle Glade riding around).

What is the policy for city vehicles and is it enforced? Places appayer me, it he Scael out Pahokee City Manager Ken Schenck responds: "On the day in question I had to go to city hall to pick up mail and some work I needed to do over the weekend. I also had to go to Belle Glade and combined the trips.

Very rarely is the city car used for personal business, that I pay for the gas.

City vehicles should not be used for personal business and if the caller is aware of an incident I would appreciate knowing. Sometimes an employee may make a personal stop if they are going out of town on city business, but the vehicle shouldn't be used solely for personal use."

Make prisoners do more cleanup

When you are stopped and charged with driving under the influence you are forced to do community time, so when you are sent to prison, you are on the taxpayer's payroll and you should work. I think with the education system our kids are getting trained, but there's no jobs for them, so naturally they are going to want to migrate to West Palm Beach or northern Florida, somewhere where the opportunities are a bit more plentiful.

Thank you.

An accident waiting to happen

Parents of children who live in Okeechobee
Center and attend Glades Central High School need to teach their children how to use or obey the crosswalk signals that go across State Road 80. The stop light and crosswalk signals are there for their safety.

Today, the truck in front of me almost hit five high-school-aged children because they were crossing while the light was green. Per-haps the school or the police department can assist the parents in training the children how to use and read the signals. Otherwise, someone is going to lose his or her life by getting hit by an oncoming vehicle.

At one point there was a police officer who was there to direct traffic, which I think is a complete waste of the city's money. These children are old enough to understand how to read these signals and use them. They just need to obey them and perhaps they don't know how to use them and just need to be taught. But they are old enough to use then

The lakeshore is quiet now. Gentle breezes blow through the pines leaving no trace the pines leaving no trace of the fun and excitement of a few days before. Laughing chil-dren, perfect weather, a com-musity in celebration. If you were not on the lake-front in Pahokee on Nov. 21, 1998 for the Grassy Waters Festival & Gar Show then shame on you!

As always, it is a thrilling sight to see all the vintage cars coming over the dike to be a part of the celebration. Thirtyone beautiful cars in every col-or imaginable lit up the festi-val like a rainbow after a storm.

Old friendships were renewed and new friendships begun. The strains of gospel music throughout the day was truly uplifting. There were several new entries with cars never before seen in this car show.

Every one of them were loving-ly restored and truly a thing of beauty. There were door prizes every hour, and raffles and games to enjoy. The day was perfect! Sunshine and soft breezes came off beautiful Lake Okeschokes Lake Okeechobee

First Raider Cross Country runner attends State competition

By Brenda Bunting Editor
Hardly a day goes by that Maurice Humphrey, Jr. doesn't run. Captain of Glades Central Community High School's cross country team, Maurice sets a good example for his fellow runners. He runs two hours every day and averages 30 miles a week.

He has been on Glades Central's Cross Country Team four years and has a personal record of 17:37 for a three-mile run. He placed first at the Suncoast Invitation this year and also won first place at the Clewiston Open this year.

Over the summer he attended the Cross Country Track competition at the University South Florida in Tampa.

Maurice, who works after school at a local pharmacy, personally raised the money to attend the one week camp in Tampa.

You have to be a very strong person to compete in cross country, "says Maurice, "and that's why I like this sport."

Maurice and his coach, Frank Lasagna, just returned from the State Cross Country 4-A Competition in Jacksonville.

sonville.

Maurice came in the top 100 of 170 runners, finishing 96th in the race. While disappointed he didn't do better, Maurice noted he enjoyed the competition.

Last week, Maurice was featured in the Palm Beach Post newspaper as their "Athlete of the Week" for his hard work and determination.

Maurice said be plans to attend the University of Florida after graduation and major in pharmacy. His goal is to someday run in the Disney Marathon in Orlando.

Maurice is the son of Catherine Moss and Edward Lee Rowe of Miami. He was born and raised in the Glades and currently lives with his grandmother, Daisy Mae Pace in Belle Glade.

CHAMPION HONORED: For the third time in the past four years, the banquet will be highlighted by Jeff Gordon's official acceptance of the Winston Cup title. Last year, emotional due to the medicale and legal problems of team owner Rick Hendrick, Gordon fought back tears as he accepted the crown.

NOTABLY ABSENT: Few in attendance will fall to remember T. Wayne Robertson, the president of R.J. Reynolds' Sports Marketing-Enterprises. After occupying his usual prominent role in last year's banquet, Robertson was killed in a January boating accident in Louisiana.

ALMUSI HOME COOKING*
It may not fuffill the usual definition of "home cooking," but food is one of the best reasons to come to the Big Apple for the Winston Cup Banquet. Many of the NASCAR's leitle will be dining in the city's world-famous restau-rants, and most, find time for shopping at Macy's, Gimbel's an the like, as well as taking in a Broadway show or two.

NOTABLE: Only the top 10 in Winston Cup points occupy a seat on the dais and get the valuable national cable-TV (ESPN) exposure. NASCAR has been honoring its top drivers in New York since 1982.

Dear Jim,

The banquet is held in New York because of the prestige associated with that city and

Winston Cup champion Jeff
Gordon has won the prestigious Driver of the Year award for the third time.
The 27-year-old Winston Cup champion was the unanimous choice of a 15-member panel of motorsports journalists.
Darrell Waltrip and Mario Andretti are the only other three-time winners.
"For me to be in the same sentence with that caliber of race-car drivers just blows me away," said Gordon. "I'm really proud of what we accomplished.
